What is your interest in serving on this board, commission or committee? We are at a historic crossroads – a social, environmental, economic, and cultural shift is reshaping arts infrastructure to be more equitable and sustainable. My diverse background and expertise in public art from municipal, regional, and international levels equips me with the knowledge and experience necessary to execute world-class public art projects that take into account local emerging artists, BIPOC (black, indigenous, and people of color) artist, and internationally renowned artists. As a member of Missoula’s Public Art Committee, I would help advance transformational narratives, increase civic engagement, enrich the lives of diverse citizens and visitors, and enhance the reputation of the City of Missoula as a cultural destination, bringing social and economic benefits to our community.
Do you have special knowledge, interest or experience that would qualify you for a position on this board, commission or committee? For the past 20 years I have been conceptualizing, curating, fundraising, producing, and promoting large-scale public art installations and events (sculptures, murals, architectural projection mapping, landscape art, new media technology, interactive art, performance art, etc.) with a range of municipal institutions, including San Francisco, Tahoe City, New York, Copenhagen, Oslo, Paris, and the United Nations.
