

DESIGN REVIEW BOARD

Interview Questions

1. What is the purpose of design review and how does it contribute to the fabric of our community?
2. What training and experience qualify you to analyze and interpret architectural and landscape drawings, site plans, and signage?
3. In your experience, from a design perspective what makes a development high quality and responsive to Missoula's urban environment?
4. Knowing that excellent urban design may add cost to a development, how would you balance those interests?
5. The Design Review Board is a quasi-judicial board that requires objectivity and impartiality. Do you feel you can be non-biased during the design review process?
6. Please describe your previous service on a review board, panel, or commission as it relates to urban design or sign-related issues.
7. The City Council and Missoula County Board of Commissioners have partnered to offer Board training twice a year. The training covers good governance, open meetings, public participation and right to know, ethics, conflicts of interest, bylaws, minutes, and parliamentary procedure, among other topics. The City Council feels it is very important that all city board members attend this training to assist them in carrying out their responsibilities. (Have you/will you) attend(ed) the training?
8. The Design Review Board meets on the second Wednesday of each month beginning at 6.00 p.m. Does your schedule generally accommodate this meeting time and allow for reviewing the staff report and other materials attached to the agenda prior to the meeting?
9. Design Review Board alternate members attend meetings and participate in discussion like full members but only vote when there is an absence among full members. Are you willing to serve as an alternate?
